CHINA ISSUES SHERSHANTUNG PLEA; LEAGUE REJECTED IT

Nation's Body Refused To Consider What Japan Calls "Proposals"

EIGHT DEMANDS

Constitute Informal Talk Between Banzai And Peking War Office

(Staff Wire To The China Press)

Peking, Oct. 31.—Under the pressure of Japan's memorandum of October 19 claiming that China had informally made proposals for the return of Shantung which formed the basis for the Japanese invitation to discuss the matter directly, the Chinese foreign office today released to the vernacular press China's terms telegraphed to Dr. Wellington Koo at Geneva on December 4th of last year. These terms the League of Nations declined to consider, but it is explained that they constituted the discussion between Yu Ching-ho of the Chinese War Office and the Japanese advisor, Banzai.

The proposals are eight in number. The introduction states that they are based upon China's declaration of war cancelling all foreign leasehold rights. They ask that:

1.—All leased territory revert to China to become open ports administered according to German precedent.

ASK SALT FIELDS RETURN

2.—Goods designated for consumption within leased territory be customs free; a municipal administration bureau similar to the former German concessions to be established and Japanese land forced purchases to be invalidated.

3.—Harbor facilities which were formerly German government property be given to the customs bureau; public conveniences buildings be given the administrative bureau. A separate arrangement be made for turning over the forts and barracks. The salt fields shall be unconditionally China's, but the Japanese shall be allowed to purchase salt under special license.

4.—The Chefoo Shih Chiachwang Railway extensions are to be given to the consortium. The Shantung Railway shall be turned over immediately to China or a definite date set for its return and temporarily it shall be operated jointly by the Chinese and Japanese, the German shares to be equally divided between China and Japan, and the shares owned by private German investors to be bought up in the same ratio; China to get one-half of the surplus profits from the date of the seizure by Japan. China to supply entirely the railway police.

TAKE AWAY TROOPS

5.—Immediate withdrawal of Japanese troops.

6.—The mines to be a joint enterprise for a stated period after which full return will be made to China.

7.—Tsingtao-Chefoo and Tsingtao-Shanghai cables to be given to China. The Wireless station constructed by the Japanese at Tsingtao to be given to China after repayment of the cost of construction to Japan.

8.—Japan to waive all rights to Shantung aside from those provided under these terms which might now or hereafter be claimed as resultant from the war with Germany.

These terms, which still embody China's true position give evidence that China and Japan are not nearly so far apart as China has endeavored to give the impression through the memorandum of October 5th, which implied that the operation of the railways and mines was out of the question, yet China a year ago prepared the very same plan, with limitations, in a proposal to the League.

It is believed here that the Foreign Office has heretofore not dared to make them public, but has endeavored to cover up its tracks, fearing popular furore. Now it is forced into the open in putting out its views in order to observe the popular reaction.

It now appears that the only fundamental obstacle to a Chinese-Japanese settlement is an ethical question as to Japan's rights to succession under the Versailles Treaty. This position Japan never will give up, as it involves its position with regard to America on island mandatories. China, on the other hand, may see her way clear to compromise this.

New Turkish Treaty Is Not Settlement Of Allies Questions

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Oct. 30.—The Government today ratified the Franco-Turkish Agreement, which in no way involves the questions still outstanding between the Allies and Turkey.

The Agreement delimitates the frontiers of Cilicia, lays down the regime to be applied to the frontier zone, and transfers to a French company the Bagdad railway between Bozanti and Nissibin.

At the same time it offers a French group a concession to develop the iron and silver mines in the Harchite Valley, provided that 50 percent of its capital is Turkish.

Let Me Look Over Japan Unhampered Prays Northcliffe

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, Oct. 30.—It is understood that Lord Northcliffe has up to the present declined all invitations to functions in his honor in Japan, stating that he prefers to be premitted to utilise the short time at his disposal in seeing the country, unhampered by engagements.

Lord Northcliffe's decision is received with considerable satisfaction as relieving the necessity for any repetition of discussion similar to that which occurred on the occasion of his visit to Washington.

It is understood that the Premier and other Japanese and also the Japan-British Society, The British Association, and others were considering tendering hospitality to him until Lord Northcliffe's cables expressing his wishes were received from Hongkong.

Japan's Arms Parley Party Both Helpful And Friendly Times' View Of Its Attitude

British Journal Says Japan Has Shown Moderation Since Reaching Rank Among Civilised Powers

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 31.—The Times welcomes the tone of the statements of the Japanese delegates on their arrival in America, which have deepened the feeling already created in official circles by the Shidehara-Hughes conversations. These have been described as being very friendly and helpful. Baron Hayashi further confirms this feeling, the newspaper continues, by the words he uttered on Saturday. The Times concludes that a powerful militarist party exists in Japan but the common-sense of the people and of many leading statesmen is sufficient to hold it in check, unless an unforeseen incident should sweep the masses off their feet, but that is a calamity which we certainly do not anticipate. Japan has shown great moderation since she took rank among the civilised Powers. She knows that subservience to militarist ambitions would alienate those who admire and esteem her most and ultimately prove fatal to her own best hopes.

All America Praying For Success Of The Conference

London, October 30.—The Washington correspondent of the Observer, endeavoring to interpert the feeling of America regarding the Washington Conference, declares that if the Conference fails it will not be the fault of American public opinion which is becoming almost evangelical in its fervor in favor of disarmament.

Among considerable portions of the people, the movement expresses itself in the slogan: "Disarmament anyhow, as an example."

Nevertheless, official opinion is likely to be: "Reduction by agreement if possible; if impossible, let us go head with our building program."

Falsehood! Cries Wu's Son; No Delegate From Canton

(Reuter's Service)

New York, October 4.—A cablegram from Dr. Chao Chu-Wu, son of Dr. Wu Ting-fang, made public today by Dr. Ma Soo, personal representative of Dr. Sun Yat-sen, on his arrival from Washington, says:

"There is absolutely no truth in the statements appearing in the American press that I will join the Peking delegation to the Washington Conference. Such statements are inspired by interested parties and designed to beguile the American public into believing that the Peking delegation includes members of the Southern Government and is therefore representative of the whole of China.

"Please inform the American public that we have definitely refused Peking's offer to join in its delegation. This action is taken after deliberation of the Cabinet and consultation with the provinces under our control, and must therefore be considered final."

President Harding Opens National Unemployment Conference In Washington

"FUNDAMENTALLY sound, financially strong, industrially unimpaired, commercially consistent and practically unafraid, there ought to be work for everybody in the United States who choose to work, and our condition at home and our place in the world depend on everybody going to work."

With this analysis of the situation, President Harding convened the National Unemployment Conference and assigned to it the task of ascertaining why millions of Americans are out of employment and of finding means of putting them back to work. The President expressed the earnest conviction that the conference could accomplish its purpose. There are "no problems affecting the national life and the welfare of the American people which we cannot solve," he said.

At the same time the President made it clear that, whatever the results, they must be achieved by American enterprise and initiative, free from Government paternalism. No assistance, he admonished the conference, can be expected from the Government which involves contributions from the public Treasury.

SOVIET WILL PAY DEBT OF ROMANOVS TO GET FOOD

Recogn tion Of Russia Is Demanded As Well As Help For Starving

(Special To The China Press)

Riga, Oct. 29.—The Bolsheviki news agency has confirmed a report that the Soviet government has agreed to recognise, under certain conditions, the foreign debts of the imperial government.

Foreign Minister Tchitcherin is reported to have recommended that the debts to France, Italy, the United States and Japan be recognised conditional upon their making peace with Russia and recognising the Soviet Republic.

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 30.—The Soviet has notified Lord Curzon of its willingness to recognise foreign debts, incurred before 1914, owing to the decision of the Brussels Famine Relief Conference that aid to the starving Russians will be conditional on Soviet recognition of such debts.

The Soviet, however, makes the proviso that it must be given special conditions and facilities to enable payment, of which, it declares, the absolute condition is the stoppage by the Great Powers of all acts menacing the security and integrity of the Soviet and of the Far Eastern Republic. The Soviet urges the summoning of an international conference to negotiate peace and to discuss the debts.

Hongkong-Shanghai Bank In New Quarters Shameen

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, Oct. 31.—A large gathering of British and Chinese officials, merchants and other notables of Canton and Hongkong were present at the opening ceremony on Saturday last of the new four-storey reinforced concrete building of the Shameen branch of the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank. The British Consul-General performed the ceremony with a golden key. The company afterwards proceeded into the banking hall where appropriate toasts were honored.

The Chairman of the Board of Directors, Mr. G. T. Edkins, in his speech, welcomed the distinguished presence of Dr. Wu Ting-fang and Mr. Jamieson. He read a congratulatory message from the British Minister in Peking wishing success to the new buildings, which, he hoped, would further help to cement the excellent commercial relations between Great Britain and China, concluding: "After all these years of friendly intercourse the Cantonese must surely realise that the British desire nothing but the establishment of a strong and free democracy in China."

The chairman also read a message from the Governor of Hongkong, expressing the hope that the Canton branch of the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank would continue to flourish and promote the prosperity of the Cantonese community. Continuing, Mr. Edkins said: "These expressions of goodwill towards the Cantonese and the rest of China aptly reflect the feelings of the corporation. It is becoming evident that the strain on China's resources and endurance is reaching a critical stage, and a united China seems to be the only workable solution of the difficulty which presents itself."

Dr. Wu Ting-fang referred to the history of the bank from the time it was considered a small bank, when it was thought that Hongkong and Shanghai were quite enough. It had become one of the largest banks in the world. The Hongkong and Shanghai bank taught the Chinese to establish and carry on banks in a good and businesslike way. It had done great service to China in giving this object-lesson. Alluding to the political situation in China, Dr. Wu Ting-fang said: "Nothing would please us more than to see the country united, but it is important to remember that we want China united in the proper way, to have an honest, clean Government and to do away with militarism. They talk about North and South. To our thinking there is no North and South in this Government. We shall have Northern people just as many as Cantonese, but it is of no use to have a patched-up peace. We had that before. We are tired of friction, but first of all let us have a sound foundation for good government. If we have that, we will give everything to have peace and see China united. I believe the bank is a link. It has no political views. All it wants is to do business. I hope China will take a lesson from this bank, starting from Canton as a center and drawing the other provinces together and be reunited. This bank may be a link for doing good to China. We hope that our Government here will be a link and the means of reuniting China."

The Chief Manager, Mr. A. G. Stephen, returned thanks to Dr. Wu Ting-fang. He said that if the bank which had no politics could be of any service to China in passing through the unhappy differences which existed, the bank direction and management considered that they could fulfil no higher or better purpose. If Canton developed as he hoped, the bank might change its name to include Canton when the bank's charter expired. Mr. Stephen hoped that Chinese banks would prosper and become more powerful. The more financial facilities there were for China trade, the more business would ultimately reach the Hongkong and Shanghai bank.

Hankow Wood Oil Co. Hear Their Cargo Is To Be Taken By Soldiers

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Oct. 27.—Further details regarding the boycott of the foreign steamers at Chungking are contained in a foreign official telegram deapatched from Chungking on October 23.

It states that when the vessels in question reached Chungking agitation was begun by the members of the Peoples Patriotic Association and student organisations, a crowd of whom interfered with the coolies and prevented them from unloading cargo.

The Chinese soldiery are said to have supported the demonstrators under a pretence of protecting the vessels. On the initiative of the British and American Consuls, an arbitration committee was then formed and held its first sitting on October 23, with the object of settling the difficulty.

Anti-foreign sentiment is said to be gaining ground in the Upper Yangtsze Valley owing to a popular supposition that internal strife in China is being fostered by foreign interests.

The recent fighting in Hupeh has inflicted serious losses on many of the inhabitants and the situation there is reported to have grown steadily worse during the past few months.

AMERICAN JUNK IS HELD

(China Press Correspondence)

Hankow, Oct. 26.—While indiscriminate firing on foreign steamers by Szechuen troops on the Upper Yangtsze has now ceased, navigation by foreign vessels on the upper river is still being harnessed by anti-foreign boycotters of the Szechuen armies who are holding a number of foreign vessels at Chungking and are using armed forces to prohibit any intercourse with the steamers now in custody. Foreign observers at Ichang state that impudence of the Chinese authorities of Szechuen might be the harbinger of international complications.

A telegram has been received by Messrs. L. C. Gillespie and Sons, the largest American trading company dealing in export of China wood oil from Hankow, from their agents at Wanhsien stating that their junk No. 202 is detained at the likin station of Kweichowfu by the likin authorities, who have received orders from General Liu Hsiang, Commander-in-Chief of Szechuen, to confiscate the cargo of wood oil. The safety of other junks of the same company and now on the Szechuen waters is also uncertain, and no news is to hand regarding their present conditions.

BLAMED FOR DEFEAT

The anti-foreign attitude of the Szechuenese is due to their recent defeat by Wu Pei-fu, whom they believe to have been assisted by foreign vessels in his campaign against the Szechuen troops. This was shown by the way they fired upon all foreign boats passing above Ichang, irrespective of their nationalities.

It is also observed by foreigners in Hankow that the strongest objection of the Szechuen authorities against foreign shipping on the Yangtsze Gorges is largely due to their desire to keep Szechuen navigation untouched by foreign vessels so that they may continue to squeeze out of the traffic for themselves all such revenues as they can lay hold upon, while the coming of foreign shipping introduces the foreign administration of the Maritime Customs and consequently a portion of the revenues would go to the treasury of Peking rather than Szechuen.

QUERY HOW TO STOP SUN
(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, Oct. 27.—The many reports of Dr. Sun Yat-sen's expedition against the North caused the calling of a conference by the President at his palace on Wednesday. Many high military officials were present including the premier, and measures to be taken in defence of the Peking Government were discussed.

The chief result of the conference was that instructions were telegraphed to the tuchuns of Kiangsi and Fukien to increase the number of the troops along their borders and to be prepared to resist the attacks of any forces of the Cantonese Government.

It was also decided that General Wu Pei-fu should be ordered to conclude his peace negotiations with Hunan and Szechuen as soon as possible in order that adequate defence measures could be taken in Hunan and Hupeh. He would remain faithful to the policy of democratic development and to the idea of reconciliation.

At the same time Dr. Rathenau, speaking at Frankfort-am-Main on the political situation, emphasized the necessity for the People's Party to enter the Cabinet and expressed his admiration for the attitude of the Chancellor, maintaining that the Wiesbaden agreement was concluded with a view to lightening the burden of the German people.

The simultaneous and analogous speeches of the Chancellor and Dr. Rathenau, the Temps writes, confirm the impression in parliamentary circles that the return of the ex-Minister of Reconstruction into the Cabinet is probable.

ture from Havre declared that he expected valuable results from the international mobilisation of intellects and goodwill at Washington.

He agreed with President Harding that it was much better to debate than to fight. It was much better to work in the open. Formerly one tried to divide in order to rule. They would try to unite in goodwill in order to make peace reign.

They were met by the Chinese Consul General who boarded the liner Empress of Russia from a special launch. Local American officials also welcomed the delegation. The party are leaving for Washington in a special train and expect to arrive at their destination on the 30th inst.

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 29.—Baron Hayashi, speaking at a luncheon of the Foreign Press Association in London today, said that he did not doubt the success of the Washington Conference if all went thither in the proper spirit.

There was no reason to suppose that those who were friends in war would now fight among themselves. He rejoiced to see the growing sentiment of closer friendship between Britain and America and hoped and believed that the same sentiment would grow between America and Japan.

It was regrettable that an internal struggle was at present proceeding in China but he believed that Britain, America, France and Japan would eventually reach a basis of agreement and the trouble with regard to China would be lightened. If peace in China could be attained the country could be developed which would mean an extension of markets and relief of unemployment but some positive kindly help must be given to China.

Baron Hayashi hoped that the delegates to the Conference would only discuss the broad principles, leaving the details to be arranged in the future. He could promise that Japan would do her utmost co-operating with Britain, France and America, to achieve the future peace of the world.

SUGGEST TRIPLE ALLIANCE
(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 30.—Commenting on Baron Hayashi's speech at a dinner of the Foreign Press Association yesterday, the Sunday Times dwells on the Japanese Ambassador's confidence that there will be little real conflict between Japanese and American interests in the Far East and that an agreement on the essential points should not be difficult to reach and also on his implied recognition of the profundity of friendship between the English-speaking peoples.

The paper expresses the opinion that, far from being an obstacle to any agreement, the Japanese Alliance, in a modified form and perhaps with the United States as a signatory, is an invaluable instrument of future peace.

The Sunday Times' solution of the disarmament question depends, firstly, on a rough agreement on the political settlement of China, and it expresses the belief that Japan will no doubt put forward a yellow version of the Monroe Doctrine but that she will interpret it in no narrow spirit, and there is no reason why it should be inconsistent with the two main principles of equal commercial opportunity in and the unimpaired sovereignty of China.

Secondly, the journal advises the placing of the disarmament projects on broad general principles, not mere arithmetical formulae of division. It also advocates a project for the neutralisation of the Pacific with an agreement not to fortify naval bases outside a certain distance from the mainland.

The Daily Telegraph says that the Ambassador has spoken wise words and notes that Japan's recent action for the settlement of outstanding difficulties with the United States and China in order that the Conference may assemble in an untroubled atmosphere shows conciliation and broadmindedness which have made very good impressions on the other peoples represented at Washington. The article concludes: "We welcome the new evidence of wise and wholehearted purpose conveyed in Baron Hayashi's speech."

FLEMING'S FIRM DENIES CHARGES AT WASHINGTON

Never Represented Japan Govt.,' As Witnesses In Lobingier Quiz Allege

Allegations brought out in the investigation at Washington of the charges made against Judge C. S. Lobingier of the United States Court for China to the effect that the local law firm of Fleming, Davies and Bryan was previously the representative of the Japanese Government in cases here, were denied by members of the firm yesterday.

Word concerning the allegations was brought in a Reuter's message yesterday. The despatch reads as follows:

Washington, D. C. Oct. 6.—An international and somewhat sensational angle has been given to the examination of the charges brought against C. S. Lobingier, Federal Judge at Shanghai, China, now being conducted by the Department of Justice.

The request for the removal of Judge Lobingier is based on complaints filed by an American lawyer, William S. Fleming. Witnesses for Judge Lobingier have brought out the fact that for several years past Mr. Fleming was attorney for leading Japanese interests in Shanghai.

On another occasion, Judge Lobingier's witnesses claim, Mr. Fleming represented the Japanese Government in the case which dealt with rioting in Shanghai, in which Japanese police were alleged to have been attacked by Chinese citizens.

Examination of the charges is being conducted by R. L. Holland, recently appointed to the Department of Justice from Colorado. The State Department is being advised as new facts are disclosed.

Commenting on the article by Reuter's Washington correspondent, Messrs. Fleming, Davies and Bryan gave out the following statement yesterday afternoon:

"Mr. Fleming and the law firm of Fleming, Davies and Bryan represented individual claimants in the cases brought against the Municipal Council by Japanese residents of Shanghai following the riots in Hongkew when Chinese police and Japanese battled in the streets. The cases were tried before the Court of Consuls and subsequently settled.

"Fleming, Davies and Bryan won the case against the Council, getting judgment for Japanese here who maintained that injury had been done. Scattering claims are still pending against the Council.

"The Japanese Government did not enter into the case and this firm has never represented the Japanese Government."

B. W. A. Has Reception

A pleasant social function occurred at the Country Club yesterday afternoon when members of the British Women's Association held a reception in honor of Mrs. and Miss Borrett, who are shortly to leave for home.

There were refreshments and a pleasing musical program besides speeches appropriate to the occasion and a number of important announcements. Bouquets were presented the guests of honor on behalf of the organisation's Gardening Section.

In voicing the regret of the Association over the impending departure of Mrs. and Miss Borrett, Mrs. E. M. Gull, after speaking of the reasons for postponing the annual general meeting, told of the proposal and progress of schemes for the organisation of a social service league and for the establishment of a residential club. Her talk, in part, follows:

"Social service, as you will all agree, is the bed-rock on which our association is founded. Although it had been a vague dream with many of us for many years, what actually gave birth to the association was the eloquent, the convincing, the irresistible appeal by Mrs. Neville Rolfe to British women in China to unite in working for the betterment of the community in which they lived. The Social Service Board then selected both for their experience and for the fact that they represent the majority of the members. The Social Service Board ask you to form a league so that all B.W.A. members may be classified into groups according to that particular form of social service they are specially interested in. It is hoped that everyone will fill in these forms and that details as to members' interests will be given. I mean, some members are interested in rescue work, some in education, some in the amelioration of the conditions under which little children work here in factories, some members are interested in temperance, others in the suppression of mah-jongg. All of us, I take it, have our pet scheme for social improvement and what we want to do is to classify and sort ourselves out with a view to being available when called upon to do our part in the great scheme of social service.

"Then may I say one word on the excellent work that is being done by the sections—to me this is really a dream come true. The gardening, the literary, the musical and the sports sections are all uniting in the great Christmas fair which is to be held on December 20—the fair which we hope may enable us to get social service in operation. Then the gardening and the musical sections combined with the entertainment committee for this afternoon. The sports section more power to them all—had a perfectly delightful blue-jacket garden party ten days ago, while the literary section has been instrumental in bringing the B.W.A. into touch with one of the most distinguished university women of the day.

"Now all these things strike me as being tremendously worth while and this very week I am hoping to act as nurse to our latest bantling—the uniformed art section. On Thursday I will take the chair at the inaugural meeting, wish it good luck and then, before I have time to look round, it will have cut its teeth, struggled onto its feet and toddled off to work out its own salvation from the word 'Go'. That is the way of the sections. They are very young but they are fine, vigorous, lusty children, every one of them.

RESIDENTIAL CLUB

"Now what I believe in our heart of hearts we are all most interested in is a Residential Club. This scheme is of such magnitude and importance to us all that it has had perforce to evolve slowly and with great caution. It is emphatically not a scheme to be carried out hastily or without a very great deal of thought. Its latest development will tell you. Having collected a great deal of information in regard to land, building and possible expenditure a committee of hard headed business men for the purpose of advising in regard to the financial aspects of such scheme has been invited to assist the subcommittee in charge. The following have most kindly agreed to serve and we may well feel gratified that in their busy lives these gentlemen are sufficiently interested in the B. W. A. as to give up their time to attend meetings on our behalf: Messrs. Mackay, Stitt, Peebles, Taggart, Wilson, Moorhead and Mann so far form the advisory committee, while the firm of Messrs. Platt, Macleod, Gregson and Ward have consented to act as honorary legal advisers to the B. W. A. and Mr. H. M. Mann, chartered accountant has promised to act as honorary auditor to the association when our day of reckoning comes at the end of the financial year. May I hope that as a result of what I have related you will agree with me that your executive committee has not been idle. We have tried to rise up from our dejection at the loss from the committee to which I referred and Mrs. Billinghurst (Mrs. I am delighted to say, reconsidered her resignation of the committee.

MRS. BORRETT

"But Mrs. Borrett has perforce to follow the flag and our gratitude to her for the part she has played in the development and upbringing of the association is equalled only by our regret that we have to lose her. It would be difficult to overestimate Mrs. Borrett's value as a member of committee. May I say that her natural gifts in the matter of alertness, of perspicuity, of readiness to see both sides of any question and of "quickness in the uptake" are outstanding qualities while her thorough training and experience in committee work, her sound advice and impartial judgment render her a colleague whom it will be exceedingly difficult to replace.

"I don't know whether all members quite appreciate that it was very largely indeed owing to Mrs. Borrett's energy and enterprise that the association got itself established in those delightful quarters on the Bund with such lightning rapidity after its inauguration. Mrs. Borrett had a great many notions and Mrs. Borrett put them through. Lots of us have notions but carrying them into effect is a very different matter.

"And like mother like daughter. To make those same old headquarters' rooms thoroughly attractive and restful, books and magazines were essential and it seemed to me that in an incredibly short time Miss Borrett not only spread the table with an abundance of journals and papers but collected the nucleus of a capital library of light literature, catalogued and bound the book and put them at the disposal of the members. Ladies, we owe a great deal to Mrs. and Miss Borrett and in wishing them all luck and happiness in the future we would beg them not to forget Shanghai, where, though they are far away, the good deeds they did will continue to grow and flourish."

FARM LABOR TO BE LEAGUE TOPIC

(Reuter's Service)

Geneva, Oct. 29.—Arising from the rejection of the consideration of agricultural labor items by the International Labor Conference yesterday, the workers' delegates to the Conference have passed a resolution, requesting the re-insertion of the matter on the next Conference agenda.

Several Government delegates, including the British and Italian delegates, have submitted a motion to the International Labor Office asking that the question of regulating hours of agricultural labor shall be discussed at the meeting of the Conference on October 31.

The conference continued an animated discussion on agricultural labor though the question of the regulation of hours has for the present been shelved.

The conference today decided by the necessary two-thirds majority to retain on the agenda items concerning unemployment, protection of women and children, and technical instruction in agriculture.

All the workers' delegates and also many Government delegates including the British and Canadian, voted with the majority but the minority included the South African, French and Swiss Government delegates.

Harvard Loses To Center College; Princeton, Army And Navy All Win Easily

Center's Captain With 40-Yard Run Through Entire Crimson Line Gives First Defeat Cambridge Has Suffered In Intersectional Games In 40 Years

Cambridge, Massachusetts, October 29.—Harvard's great football team was beaten by Center College of Danville, Kentucky, at the Stadium this afternoon by a score of 6-0 in a game which attracted the biggest crowd of the season.

Capt. Bo McMillin's forty-yard run through the entire Crimson eleven brought the only touchdown of the game and sent Harvard down to defeat for the first time in five years.

It was the first time that Harvard lost an intersectional battle in forty years.

ARMY, NAVY AND PRINCETON WINNERS

New York, October 30.—Harvard's defeat by Coach C. B. Moran's wonderful eleven from little Center College, the team that made Danville, Kentucky, famous two years ago, has upset football predictions and Princeton now looms as the best team in the East. Last season Harvard trounced Center 31-14 and no struggle was anticipated by the Crimson yesterday.

While Harvard was losing by a 6-0 score, Princeton was busy walloping the University of Virginia by a score of 34-0.

That both the Army and Navy are strong can be seen by yesterday's games. The Army rolled up 53 points in the game against Susquehanna University at West Point while The Navy scored 43 points against Brown's seven.

The Brown touchdown was a surprise. Football critics look for a close game between the Army and Navy this Fall as both are highly developed offensive elevens.

NEW REASON FOR SUN'S FORAY IS TO OUST CHAO

(China Press Correspondence)

Hankow, Oct. 24.—There is a new explanation of the so-called punitive expedition of Dr. Sun Yat-sen against Peking, according to a leading Chinese newspaper in Hankow. It is stated by this paper that the real objective, or rather the primary objective, of Dr. Sun is to regain Hunan to the constitutional government of South China. In the event of this being successful, Sun will overthrow the fence-riding administration of Chao Heng-ti in Hunan.

Another vernacular Hankow paper says today that General Lu Tao, commander-in-chief of Kweichow Province, has circularised an indictment against Wu Pei-fu charging him with adherence to Dr. Sun Yat-sen in making an attack upon the Peking government. It is also stated that General Koo Ping-cheng, commander-in-chief of Yunan Province, is also in favor of Sun Yat-sen's recent movement at Canton.

But Wu Pei-fu, who is destined to play a starring role if the reported attack of Sun becomes true, is on his way to Hankow, and is shortly expected to arrive. He is said to be delayed at either Shasi or Yochow on his way down, but his return is officially ascertained.

Wu's return is primarily for dealing with any serious matters that may come up in the central provinces, such as the attack and advance upon Hunan of Dr. Sun Yat-sen. He will also look after the readjustment and reconstruction of the provinces now under his control, so as to stabilise his position in the Yangtze region.

FAIR WAY FOR SUN

General Li Lieh-chun has already arrived at Yunchow, Hunan, and General Lan Shih-wang is now at Chaochow on the border between Kwangtung and Kiangsi.

Generals Chiang Tso-ping, Kong Keng and Hsia Teh-ying are all now in Hunan, preparing the way for the entry of Dr. Sun.

General Chen has declared martial law in his province.

Silk Fire Case Is Given Hearing In Mixed Court

Suit for the recovery of Tls. 11,649 for goods alleged to have been lost in the great silk fire of last March on Soochow Road by Young Lee and Company against the Ching Foo Union Bank was called yesterday in the Mixed Court before Assessor Tenney and Magistrate Yui and was continued after claims and counterclaims had been presented.

It was set forth that the plaintiffs had borrowed the sum of $11,000 from the bank on security consisting of 20 cases of hand made lace valued at Tls. 11,649.45 in January. The goods were insured in the name of the bank with the Union Insurance Society of Canton and after the fire the insurance company declined to honor the claim on the grounds that the goods had been moved from one godown to another. Mr. H. D. Rodger appeared for the plaintiffs and Mr. R. F. C. Master of the firm of White Cooper, Master and Harris appeared for the bank.

La Poupee

La Poupee, a piece already famous through its association with the genius of Pavlova will be given this evening and tomorrow at the Lyceum by Madame Kulichevskaya's special company. Mme. Kulichevskaya once was Pavlova's teacher.

The scene of this fantasy is laid in a Russian toyshop, into which there come buyers, among whom is an English lady.

The shopkeeper shows his customers the dolls and then brings out a toy called the "Doll's Fairy." The English lady buys it and asks it to be sent to her. One by one the people leave the shop. After the shutters have been put up, in the evening light the "Doll's Fairy" revives and with her sceptre gives life to the others, when the shop is transformed into the Kingdom of Dolls, and the dances begin.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

Don't Poison Baby.

FORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have paregoric or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and a few drops too many will produce the sleep from which there is no waking. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labeling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrups," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given to your children unless you or your physician know of what it is composed. Castoria does not contain narcotics.

WHICH RAILWAY FIRST IS QUERY OF SIEMS-CAREY

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking Oct. 28.—Mr. Frederick C. Hitchcock, of the Siems-Carey Railway and Canal Company, Inc. who has been in Peking for several months in the interests of the China enterprises of his company, is now making an overland trip over the route of the Canton-Hankow railway in company with Mr. C. J. Carrol, chief engineer on that railway. The journey will require about three weeks. Mr. Hitchcock will sail from Shanghai for New York directly upon completion of his trip, about November 29, and without returning to Peking.

The Siems-Carey people are the original surveyors of the northern route from Hankow to Szechuen—that up the Han river to the Shansi border and directly to Chengtu. Many engineers believe this route to be more economic as well as far less costly than the direct route up the Yangtze river through the gorge country and via Chungking. Should the coming Washington Conference result in the immediate investment of Consortium funds in railway construction in China, the Canton-Szechuen railway is certain to be the first built, and Siems-Carey hope that their route for the western half of that trunk line will be the one adopted.

WHICH COMES FIRST?

It has been a moot point within the Consortium itself as to which should be first built, the Canton-Hankow portion or the Hankow-Szechuen portion. The British interests in the Consortium have naturally insisted that the Canton-Hankow line take the precedence, inasmuch as British influence predominates in the Yangtse Valley and South China and stands to be greatly strengthened by immediate construction of this line. On the other hand, the American interests have stoutly maintained that the Hankow-Szechuen line, from the economic standpoint, is the more urgently needed.

American enterprise and initiative have thus far been prominent in the development of the great inland empire of Szechuen. The Americans have maintained that, since they expect to put up the great bulk of the funds, their desires should be respected.

This is the old argument of "the money talks."

Apparently, in this case, however, the money is not going to do all the talking, for the eastern half of the Canton-Szechuen trunk is almost certain to be the first completed, Consortium or no Consortium. The issue is still open and, should the Consortium become active following the Washington Conference, for which it, as all things now wait, may again become acute.

WOMAN'S CLUB HAS BIRTHDAY PARTY TODAY

The birthday celebration of the American Woman's Club will be held this afternoon at the Carlton Cafe at 4 o'clock. As has been the custom for a number of years each member is requested to bring a gift to the club for the library. Mrs. G. P. Armstrong, librarian, and her committee, will greet the members and receive donations of books. In case members do not have a book they wish to donate, money gifts will be received and the amount used to purchase reference books for the various departments.

Ladies of the San Francisco Trade Commission party will be guests of honor at the club. While an excursion up the Whangpoo River to visit the various docks is scheduled for the men, the American Woman's Club hope that the women of the party will attend the meeting of the organisation.

The address today promises to be of unusual interest. Mr. D. E. Douty, silk expert from New York, will speak on "Preparation of Silk for the Market." He will illustrate his talk and in referring to silk says that "silk is the tie which binds America with the Orient."

A social time will be enjoyed while tea is being served and it is hoped that there will be a good attendance.

FILIPINO BAR MEN TO BE GUESTS OF LOCAL LAWYERS

Delegates Back From Peking Report Successful Meeting

American and Filipino delegates to the first conference of the International Bar Association in Peking returned to Shanghai during the week end, reporting a successful meeting tending toward the fostering of the spirit of international goodwill and co-operation among the legal fraternity in the Far East.

The conference was attended by representatives of the Russian, Japanese, Chinese, American, Korean and Filipino bars, some 200 delegates and guests assembling.

American representatives included Messrs. C. P. Holcomb, H. D. Rodger and N. E. Lurton of Shanghai and the Filipino delegation consists of Judge Jose Abreau, Senator P. Guevara, and Messrs. M. Azada, A. Suntay, F. A. Delgado, R. Summers, J. A. Santos and Mr. E. Quirino, who is a member of the Philippine legislature.

The Filipino delegation will be entertained at tiffin tomorrow by several local American lawyers and have been invited to a dinner tomorrow night by members of the Chinese Bar Association.

The Peking conference opened on October 23 and the three-days' program included a luncheon given by the Minister of Justice, a dinner tendered by the Premier, a luncheon at which the acting Chief Justice was host and a call upon President Hsu Shih-chang. A dinner was also given the visitors by the Bankers Association.

A morning was devoted to the giving of lectures to the Judicial Officers' Training College. Mr. H. D Rodger spoke at this institution on American and Chinese law, tracing many interesting parallels between the origins of Chinese laws and the English Common Law upon which American law is based. He spoke in congratulatory terms of the development of the Chinese bar and the formation of the Chinese Bar Association and emphasised the importance of fraternity and co-operation among members of the bar of all nationalities in the East. The Judicial Officers Training College he described as a most important factor in the development of men fitted to appear as China's representatives in the International Court of Justice which is to decide the cases of nations in the future.

Hallowe'en Party Is Enlivened By American Sailors

Hallowe'en entertainment provided by members of the congregation of the Community Church last night at the Navy Y. M. C. A. for Americans here was enlivened by the unexpected arrival of a half hundred American sailors from the American gunboats Tracy and Villalobos which came into port yesterday.

When the entertainment was planned it was thought that the men of the Navy would not be here and their arrival was a pleasant surprise. Incidentally the sailors and all who attended had an exceedingly good time.

Activities began with a sketch that was called "The Princely Prima Donna", which was staged to the delight of all present by boys of the American School. This was followed by a number of Hallowe'en Games after which "The Black Cat Uproar", a screen comedy, seasonable in nature and full of mirth, was screened.

Lunch was served at the 'Pumpkin Inn' at which only 'ghost money' could be presented. The menu at the Pumpkin Inn was worthy of all American Hallowe'en traditions and items of the fare provided included such offerings as "Certain Death," "Queen of the Harvest" and "Spirits of Spirit" with "Solid Cider" on the side. The evening's entertainment closed with the singing of popular songs.

Nanking Road Fire Swiftly Extinguished

Fire in a watch and clock shop at 121 Nanking Road shortly before the noon hour yesterday interrupted traffic and caused no little excitement in the business district before it was at length extinguished with difficulty by Central division. The alarm was given shortly after eleven o'clock and on the arrival of the firemen, they discovered a difficult situation as the blaze was confined to an attic floor packed with clothing and inflammable materials. After openings had been made through the roof and the ceiling below, the blaze was brought under control.

HARBOR EXPERTS BACK AT WORK AFTER RIVER TRIP

International Board, After Inspection Junket, Starts On Report

Members of the International Committee of Consulting Engineers studying the harbor problem here, who returned last week from a houseboat trip of inspection of the upper Whangpoo, are again hard at work in the committee room.

The trip up the river took the visiting experts as far Chingchan and Chapu and into the network of waterways about the upper reaches of the river. A most successful trip was reported and the members evinced great interest in the remarkable system of inland waterways which they inspected. Since their return they have been holding daily sessions from 9:30 a.m. until noon and from 3 to 6 p.m. in the board rooms.

It was stated yesterday that they have now gone over in a preliminary way all of the various schemes which have been put forward with regard to the development and expansion of Shanghai as a world port. They are now starting on the development of their opinion and report on the matter.

OUTBREAKS OF FIRE

The attention of the Council has been drawn to the fact that, upon the occasion of a recent fire at a Cotton Mill, no report of the outbreak was made either to the Fire Brigade or Police, with the result that the fire obtained considerable headway and was extinguished with difficulty.

Mill Managers and others in charge of industrial establishments are hereby requested to take such steps as will ensure prompt notification to the Fire Brigade or Police of all outbreaks of fires on their premises, however small, in order that adequate steps may be taken to prevent conflagration.

THINKS BABY'S OWN TABLETS SAVED HER BABY'S LIFE.

Canadian mothers have known and trusted Baby's Own Tablets for years. Here is one such mother's experience:—

"I think I can thank Baby's Own Tablets for my baby's life He we tadly constipated, but after giving him the Tablets they relieved him almost at once. I also find them good when he is at all restless and I feel that I cannot say too much in their favour," writes Mrs. John N. Pringle, Forest Falls, Ontario.

To mothers everywhere Baby's Own Tablets, the Canadian children's remedy, are a real friend. They gently regulate the bowels, make teething easy, are a specific for colic, diarrhoea, indigestion, simple fever and worms. Contain no opiates, are guaranteed absolutely harmless for the youngest child. Of chemists, also post free, 60 cents the vial, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 98 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

The Closing Door

A TELEGRAM received from Tokio states that the "Ralph Moller" incident has been referred to the British Foreign Office, and that H. M. Ambassador is in communication with the United States Ambassador on the subject.

The firing upon the British steamship by the Merkuloff gunboat Batterea directly involves American interests no less than British, since the ship was chartered by the American firm of Patstone and Patstone Ltd., of Shanghai.

Local commercial houses are observing with keen interest what bearing, if any, the Anglo-Russian trade agreement will have in the issue, inasmuch as the problem of reopening Siberian trade has often been the subject of more or less academic discussion.

In view of the existing agreement, will Britain allow the right of a British ship to convey goods to Kamchatka to be set aside by the unrecognised, hardly established group existing at Vladivostok which, considers itself a "government?"

Apart from the merely nominal power which this government possesses, it does not even lay claim to jurisdiction over Kamchatka, as such claim would be without the least shadow of substance. In this region it maintains no civil organisation nor military forces. Its territorial claims are limited to the Priamur Province, while actually its uncertain power does not extend beyond Nicolsk-Ussurisk or Grodekovo.

The presumption of the Batterear in firing upon the British flag becomes more serious when it transpires that no arms or war material of any kind was included in the cargo, as has been alleged. The contents of the vessel were unloaded at Hakodate under the supervision of diplomatic representatives and found to consist of flour, potatoes, piece goods, oil, and coal, as listed in the ship's manifest. It was a simple trading expedition, and with its failure the only hope of the people of Kamchatka receiving winter supplies before the close of navigation, by reason of ice bound harbors, becomes very uncertain. Assurances of British protection have not yet been forthcoming. The Ralph Moller discharged cargo at Hakodate and returned to Shanghai.

What action the British Government can take against the Merkuloff faction in control at Vladivostok, under whose orders the Batterea was operating, is problematical. It is not customary for Britain to remain indifferent in the case of an affront to the right of her ships to ply the seas.

The special point of American interest comes in the generally accepted view that the coup d'etat at Vladivostok which drove out the moderate Antonoff government was effected through the connivance of the Japanese forces. The "impartial" disarming of the militia which recognised the authority of Chita resulted in a government which is clearly no more than a nominal government, dependent upon Japan.

Is it possible that the Japanese authorities were not fully conversant beforehand with the plans of their protege gunboat?

The attack on the Ralph Moller takes on the aspect, therefore, of an unwarranted interference with the rights of American trade.

It will be difficult to disclaim responsibility. The incident, moreover, occurred in Japanese waters. A full explanation of the incident may properly be demanded of the Japanese Government.

The Japanese, it must be said, do excel in the devious art of diplomacy, and the opportunity to use the Vladivostok adventurers and escape responsibility is in line with their characteristic "cleverness" and in accord with their clear policy with regard to Kamchatka.

This region is marked out as coming within the sphere of the future dominance of Japan as a Pacific power. The furor evoked in the Japanese press by the Vanderlip negotiations of a year ago will serve to indicate the sensitiveness of Japan to outsiders intruding on trade domains she has grabbed.

The case has a peculiar aspect in view of profuse assurances of an Open Door. The losses suffered by Patstone and Patstone, Ltd, in pursuance of this trading venture call for more than an equivocal disclaimer and the usual expressions of regret.

Interference with American trade comes at an inopportune moment. While it has not been customary in all cases for Washington to give diplomatic support to American commerce, an incident of this nature adds cumulative force to many provocative incidents connected with Japan's militaristic power in the Far East which seems to demand now something in the nature of strong and decisive action.

The League And The Washington Conference

BY RAYMOND B. FOSDICK
(New York Tribune)

HE United States is about to make another bid for world leadership. Will it be more successful than the first one? Will the spirit that defeated the work of Mr. Wilson also defeat the plans of Mr. Harding? After the disillusionment and reaction that followed the armistice, can public opinion once more be raised to a level of clarity and strength that will make partisan issues and personal interests subservient to the welfare of the whole human race?

These are the questions that fill the minds of all those whom the war waked out of the old dream of national self-sufficiency. The call issued by the President to a limited number of great powers for a conference at Washington in November is primarily concerned with the problem of disarmament. The question is so imperative that no thinking man dares quibble about the means used in arriving at its solution. If the action of the President leads to any relief from the overwhelming burdens that the peoples of all countries have borne because of their fears of each other, no man, whether Republican or Democrat, conservative or progressive, can fail of approval and congratulation. But just because the problems involved are so pressing, those who are most eager for a solution are anxiously watching the steps taken by the President, not in a spirit of fault-finding, but only in the hope that obstacles may be avoided and everything done that can be done to ensure ultimate success.

Studying the conference in this spirit, the first thing that strikes an observer is its limited character. Fault has been found, repeatedly and bitterly, with the fact that the League of Nations in its original proceedings did not include the representatives of the entire civilised world. The war, with its insuperable cleavages, accounted for the exclusions in this case, and even then, these exclusions were never meant to be anything but temporary. At its birth the League had a possible membership of forty-five nations and an actual membership of thirty-eight. Today it has a membership of forty-eight. Seven-eighths of the civilised world are represented in its deliberations.

Mr. Harding's conference is to be composed of the delegates of only six powers. These six powers represent undoubtedly a stronger armed force on land and sea than any other combination of nations in the world. If it be simply a question of enforcing their will, they may succeed in achieving their aim. But the leadership of force has been tried and found wanting. If the war so recently concluded meant anything in its outcome, it was that world leadership shall never again be based on armies and navies. To carry the world with them in this new venture, these six powers must win the goodwill and voluntary co-operation of the rest of the nations. They must have behind them the united public opinion of forty or more lesser States. The question is whether the right path to that goal begins at a conferenc from which the overwhelming majority of the world's nations are completely excluded.

Already the chorus of protest is beginning to rise. Spain is dissatisfied, Holland and Belgium feel particularly aggrieved, and the lesser States in Europe, as well as the countries in South America, regard the Washington conference with no little suspicion. In their eyes it resembles too closely the Holy Alliance; it seems to suggest a threat to enforce on the rest of the world a decision arrived at in secret by five great powers. "We are equally interested in the problems of armament and disarmament," say these smaller powers. "Are we to have no voice in the discussion? Is this matter of world-wide human importance to be settled for us by a handful of great States?"

This argument becomes the more compelling as the realisation grows that international questions other than disarmament are to be discussed by the Washington conference. The problems of the Pacific and the Far East situation are to be taken up. Is it any wonder that Holland, with her extensive holdings there, should resent her exclusion from the Washington deliberations? Her stake in the decision is tremendous, and she rightly feels the indignity of the discrimination. This is to be a conference of the powerful, not of the weak; of the great, not of the small.

Moreover, it is likely that the conference will develop for discussion further questions of international significance. There is persistent rumor—let us hope it is not true—that the State Department has sounded the British Government with regard to putting the international opium situation on the agenda of the conference. Will six powers, sitting behind closed doors, determine this and other questions for the rest of humanity? Is there not danger that the discriminatory basis of the conference may wreck beyond repair the possibility of world disarmament?

The second point that strikes an observer is the evident desire of the Washington Administration, in embarking on this new international venture, to avoid any connection with the similar venture already started by forty-eight Governments under the name of the League of Nations. Disarmament is to be the principal issue of the Washington conference. Disarmament, or rather the gradual reduction of armaments, is one of the avowed objects of the League. Moreover, this mission of the League is not merely a hope laid in the future. Its work in this direction has already begun, and begun in a scientific spirit which those familiar with the field regard as highly auspicious.

In this connection it is well to bear in mind that the five powers invited to the Washington conference are members of the League of Nations. There are undoubtedly those here who think that such membership will not matter, but recent events in Europe give strong color to the belief that the representatives of the five powers will arrive with unabated consciousness of their duties and rights as members of the League of Nations. The American delegates may adorn themselves with blinders of any size and thickness and may thus be able to imagine that the League does not exist as far as the conference is concerned. But the world will know whenever a delegate from one of the other powers speaks that what he says is based to no little extent on data collected and resolutions formed under the auspices of the League. It will be interesting to see whether the American delegates and those directing their movements from behind the scenes can in the long run remain impervious to the logic of this ridiculous situation.

The steps taken by the League toward the gradual reduction of armament all over the world are too well known to need repetition. Only the last one of these steps is pertinent to our discussion. It consisted of the formation on June 22, 1921, of what is called the Temporary Disarmament Commission, composed of twenty-two members. In accordance with the system practiced by the League in several other fields, the membership of this body is made up without regard to nationality, although care was taken to have as many nations represented as possible and to avoid the over-representation of any one country. Under the Assembly resolution creating it, the membership of the Temporary Disarmament Commission is decided by personal qualifications, and each member acts not as a representative of his Government but as a private individual representing a certain field of experience and study.

This body met for the first time at Paris a few days after President Harding had given the first hint to the world about his proposals for a disarmament conference. At first it was thought that such a step by the American President would take the ground from under the feet of the League Commission. A brief but intense study of the situation by those most immediately concerned showed, however, that the differences between the two bodies were such that they could supplement each other without in any way crossing wires. The Temporary Disarmament Commission under the Presidency of M. Rene Viviani thereupon proceeded to organise, not as though no Washington conference had been called, but as if its work were meant for the use of that conference. The keynote struck by M. Viviani at the opening meeting was one of sincere rejoicing that the American people had at last taken a definite step to join the rest of the world in active fight against the old evil of competitive armaments. Emphasis was placed on the fact that the commission appointed by the League is technical and will deal with general principles, while the Washington conference will be political and is to deal with specific applications of those principles.

The question now is whether the men in charge of the Washington conference will show the same generous attitude toward the League Commission that the commission has shown towards the conference. The question is the more pertinent and interesting as it implies merely a receptive attitude on the part of the conference, while all the giving is left to the League Commission. Will it be a spirit of honest recognition of fact on the part of Mr. Harding and Secretary Hughes, or will they treat the League and its disarmament commission with the same studied discourtesy and hostility which have marked their attitude to date?

A few additional facts about the composition, organisation, members and methods of the Temporary Disarmament Commission may help to explain the vital importance of this question. The commission has divided itself into three sub-commissions, with the following membership and objects:

Commision No. 1 is to deal with the private manufacture of arms and war material, the ratification of the Convention for the Control of the Traffic in Arms, and the establishment of a central international bureau for the control of such traffic. Its members are H. A. L. Fisher of Great Britain, Dr. Rivas Vicuna of Chile, Admiral Gough-Calthorpe of Great Britain, Genera Marietti of Itay, Jouhaux of France, Hodacz of Czecho Slovakia and Jancovici of Rumania.

Commission No. 2 will deal with the right of investigating the armaments of ex-enemy States under the treaties of peace and with the mutual exchange of information on armaments between the members of the League. It is composed of Viviani of France, Branting of Sweden, Tatsuke of Japan, Thorberg of Sweden, Marshal Fayolle of France, General Inagaki of Japan, Jancovici of Rumania and Langkjaer of Denmark.

Commission No. 3 will deal with the basis for the examination of the actual state of armaments in all the Governments of the world. It is composed of Senator Schanzer of Italy, Sir James Brunyate of India, Janssen of Belgium, Professor Benini of Italy, Oudegeest of Holland, Thomas Findly of Canada, Marshal Fayolle of France, General de Magaz of Spain and Admiral Penido of Brazil.

It is to be noted that on each one of these subcommissions, which are to go to the very bottom of the whole question of how the world can rid itself of its most irksome burden, men representing widely separated walks of life are working side by side. Every subcommission includes statesmen, financiers, economists, military and naval experts, and representatives of capital and labor. These men have at their disposal figures and facts collected by the Secretariat of the League since its incipiency in May, 1919. Furthermore, they have at their command the answers returned by about twenty-five Governments to inquiries sent out by the Secretariat early in 1921. There is every reason to hope that additional information of every kind will be forthcoming at a steadily increasing rate. The members of the commission have already been at work formulating plans for overcoming some of the great difficulties in the way of a concerted movement for disarmament. The technical problems involved are enormous. It is not oratory, but painful study, that is going to bring us to our goal. What we want is not the pious eloquense of Presidents and Prime Ministers, but a formula.

As an example of the kind of preparatory work that is necessary may be mentioned the plan worked out for the League's Commission by Senator Schanzer of Italy for standardising the methods used in calculating the armaments of different countries. It had been thought that the extent of their armaments might be gauged by the appropriations made for military and naval purposes rather than by the number of men under arms or the number of ships in commission. This belief was rapidly undermined when, in accordance with the Assembly resolution, the proposition was made to the various members of the League that they restrict their military and naval appropriations for 1922 and 1923 to the sums already appropriated for the fiscal year of 1921. It was shown, for instance, that Japan could maintain an army almost as large as that of the United States on a budget appropriation little more than one-fourth of what we are spending for the same purpose. Under the plan proposed by Senator Schanzer all factors entering into the question will be co-ordinated in such a way that it will be possible to determine just what each particular nation is doing or not doing to render itself safe against, or dangerous to, other nations.

Does any one believe that the conference meeting next November can develop, in the few weeks at its disposal, the material needed to make its deliberations scientifically as well as politically effective? If not, does any one think that President Harding and his associates can afford to disregard an availabe collection of such data freely offered for its use by the League of Nations? And if the conference places the desire for efficiency above all other considerations and accepts what is offered to it, will it not be plain to every observer that the present American attitude toward the League is as hypocritical as it is obstructive?

A large fraction of the American people have been bamboozled into thinking that the League is a frightful bogy. But what do we find when we look at the facts? We find that the League is run, not by the selfish imperialists of Europe, but by men like General Smuts, Lord Robert Cecil, Hjalmar Branting, Rene Viviani and Wellington Koo. In the light of what it has attempted and achieved during the nearly two years of its existence, we discover no superstate with its capital at Geneva, no armies going from Japan to separate the Polish and Lithuanian forces near Vilna, no harsh notes demanding the payment of indemnity from the powers of Central Europe. Instead, we discover an organisation with practically no physical force at its disposal and without the right to command the support or collaboration of a single member, unless that member explicitly consents. We discover a body which has repeatedly been balked in efforts that seemed desirable to the greater part of the civilised world, and which in other instances has been compelled even to refrain from making any effort at all because of the realisation that it would be futile. Yet we discover also a body with a prestige that is growing proportionately to a growth of conviction throughout the world that it represents the one feasible means of rendering all nations capable of concerted action for purposes common to all. And one of the reasons why we find this growth of faith in the face of several unmistakable failures is that these failures generally are ascribed not to any shortcomings in the League itself or on the part of those guiding its destinies, but entirely to the obstructionist methods applied toward the League by the country where the idea of its establishment first took form, namely, our own.

For our official attitude has been one of barely disguised hostility, although the practical aims of the League in most cases are particularly dear to the American heart. Wherever it was possible, the American Government has directly or indirectly blocked the actions of the League, and in one instance at least it has forced the League to abandon its plan and resort to makeshift arrangements, generally recognised to be unsatisfactory in the face of the vastness of the problem involved. The League's proposal for the establishment of a public health organisation covering the world had to be abandoned because the United States as a signatory of the convention establishing the Public Health Office at Paris explicitly refused to let that body enter into any co-operation with the League. Similarly, the American Government has refused to let the control of the international opium traffic become centralised under the League. Refusals of this kind have not been sent directly to the League, but have gone from Washington to the body or Government previously in charge of the matter involved. The League itself has been systematically flouted by our State Department, which has even gone to the extreme of sending a local Consular officer to the League Secretariat with a verbal explanation that the United States, not being a member of the League, could not answer its communications.

On the other hand, this attitude of the American Government must be balanced by the increasing prominence of the suggestion that the establishment of a new association of nations be brought up for discussion by the Washington conference. It must also be studied in the light of such peculiar phenomena as the presence in Geneva for the past two months of Professor David Jayne Hill, studying the workings of the League within its very headquarters and attending the sessions of the second Assembly.

There is one obvious explanation of these apparent contradictions. This is that the real purpose of the Washington conference is not so much the discussion of disarmament and the Pacific adjustment as the accumulation of a prestige that will enable the Administration to force the establishment of a new association of nations, differing from the existing one only in having a Republican instead of a Democratic birth certificate. It seems scarcely possible that we should stoop so low. It seems incredible that America should juggle with the hopes of mankind to satisfy the exigencies of a political fight. Nevertheless, even out of this welter of intrigue and selfishness may come something worth while. The world is so sorely stricken that few if any nations can afford to quibble about particulars, and the assurance of American co-operation is so alluring that it may lead to extreme concessions on the part of the other nations.

LETTERS AND THEIR WRITERS

The man who said that the art of letter writing is dead evidently did not take the trouble to read the correspondence columns of our leading daily papers. Why, people write on every conceivable subject, and the less conceivable the subject the more they write. I have read in my spare moments letters on subjects ranging from the Einstein Theory to Flappers. I am quite aware that the first subject is somewhat related to the second in that they are both difficult to understand. But that is quite beside the present question. Having digested a number of DRY subjects it is time that our columns were opened to the opposition, and so we give herewith letters received here and elsewhere on the subject of:

COCKTAILS

Sir, What is a cocktail? Until very recently I was under the impression that it was a form of narrative chiefly acceptable by the marines—a near relation of the cook-and-bull story—but I have gathered from your interesting correspondence that it must be a kind of beverage. I can, however, find no instructions for its composition in my copy of Mrs. Beeton's invaluable work (1865 edition, and bequeathed to me by my dear grandmother). Yours, with great interest,

ADELINE FOOTYPUSS.

THE EFFECT OF THE CHERRY

Sir.—Your correspondence has set me wondering about an experience of my own. While on one of my infrequent visits to the Club, I was recently dined by an exchange broker cousin of mine. As a preliminary to the meal, he suggested an appetiser, which he ordered under the name (if I remember rightly) of a Lee-Metford, or Martini,—at any rate it was some title I had hitherto associated chiefly with the history of the rifle.

It turned out to be a bland fluid which apparently consisted of a little very cold water, with the addition of some faint and amber colored flavoring essence. A pretty touch, that would commend the drink to children, was the presence in each glass of a preserved cherry on the end of a thin splinter of wood. An acquaintance or two joined us, and more of these gentle beverages were swiftly consumed. Unfortunately, I cannot testify to their effect as appetisers, for the extraordinary thing is that after the sixth or seventh I have the greatest difficulty in exactly reconstructing the subsequent details of the evening's entertainment.

Indeed, it would not be too much to say that, beyond a vague impression that all went extremely well and happily, I remember nothing at all till next morning, when I awoke in my hotel with a sense of queerness in the head, and a feeling about the tongue which might be likened to the outside of a match-box.

Is it possible that I had been unwittingly introduced to some form of cocktail?

Yours, thoughtfully,

VERDANT GREEN.

A VICAR'S SPORTING SUGGESTION

A Devonshire vicar writes in a patriotic vein upon the subject that he knows so little about:

Sir: Though I am one of those who cannot claim to have ever tasted the insidious compound so adequately discussed in your enthralling correspondence, I was greatly impressed by one point that has been made.

The cocktail is, I understand, an American invention; nevertheless the Old Country has adopted it with such vigor that, according to one of your medical correspondents, it is not uncommon to find a contemporary Londoner accommodating an eight or nine as a preliminary to lunch or dinner. If this is a fair average for an ordinary occasion, what would he not accomplish for a special one and after a period of intensive training? Surely the United States, birthplace of the cocktail though it be, could not beat the capacity of some of our own experts.

I am moved to suggest, therefore, that before this wonderful year of sporting contests draws to an end, there should be arranged a series of Anglo-American - Cocktail - Shifting - Test Matches.

I imagine that some of your observant correspondents would be only too happy to act as Selection Committee for the English team; and if my humble reading of the situation is correct the result of the contest should go far to console us for the loss of the polo and open golf championships.

Yours, etc.
With apologies to Gordon Phillips.

16 Mission Schools To Merge

(China Press Correspondence)

Hankow, Oct. 24.—At a meeting this afternoon of the China Educational Commission and leading Chinese educationalists of Wuhan, Dr. J. L. Stuart, President of Peking University, announced the results of the investigations of this commission which has travelled extensively in China and visited many schools and universities.

The suggestion advanced by Dr. Stuart as the representative of the commission was that the sixteen existing mission colleges and universities be amalgamated into five union universities to be located at five centers scattered in North, South, East, West, and Central China.

The commission which was appointed by the Mission boards of America and England has thoroughly investigated the whole question of mission educational work in China with a view to suggesting plans for the improved efficiency of the mission work as a whole. Dr. Stuart pointed out examples of the failure of various missions to establish colleges or universities in China with the limited resources at their disposal and said that these failures could be eliminated by the pooling of the funds of the various denominational missions of America and England. In this way educational work in this country could be immeasurably improved.

TO SPECIALISE WORK

The plan for amalgamation which he advanced was that the sixteen existing institutions be grouped together in five main centers but with each college retaining its own buildings and possibly its own equipment. Each of the five union institutions would make arrangements with the colleges associated together so that each of them would specialise in the line of work for which it was most suited.

In this way equipment would be utilised in the most economical way and there would be better co-operation between colleges now in some sense rivals of each other. The funds which these different institutions could secure from their home boards would also amount to enough when pooled and distributed in this way to carry on work which would otherwise be impossible.

These suggestions met the full approval of the Chinese present at the meeting who in subsequent speeches all expressed the opinion that this process of amalgamation of the existing Christian educational institutions of China would open a new era in the history of Chinese education. The prospect for education would be much improved by such measures inasmuch as the government is at present very inefficiently caring for the interests of the students of China.

INDUSTRIAL TRAINING

Dr. Mary Woolley, President of Mount Holyoke, then raised the question as to how mission institutions of learning could best co-operate with Chinese schools and colleges when they became better organised under government control.

Various answers were given by the Chinese to this question but the general opinion seemed to be that industrial education who the best field for mission education. Professor Percy, Roxby of the University of Liverpool then pointed out that this idea had been taken up and rejected by the mission boards who were primarily interested in the evangelisation of China. The Chinese speakers showed, however, the great need of this form of education and the question was left for reconsideration by the commission and the home boards of the various missions in America and England.

The League And The Washington Conference

The question is, however, whether co-operation started under such circumstances would have a chance of successful development. Furthermore, it is a question whether even then we would not quickly find that the alleged substitution was one that affected only the name of the organisation, and that the new association was merely the old League with a new label pasted over its front. If these misgivings are warranted, it is plain that the reported policy of Washington can lead to nothing but a loss of time, while, on the other hand, all the chances for a resumed American world leadership lie in a frank discussion by the Washington conference of the best means to enable the United States to join the present League, with such modifications and reservations as may be deemed necessary by American public opinion.

WILL INVESTIGATE FRENCH FLAG ON CHINESE BOATS

(China Press Correspondence)

Hankow, Oct. 24.—The Hankow French Consul, Mr. L. Eynard, left last week for Chungking, Szechuen province, on a trip of investigation of the circumstances of and complications arising from the several cases of Chinese shipping companies using the French flag on the upper Yangtsze Valley. This was done to baffle the Chinese authorities in their opium smuggling business, and recently, in their secret agreements with the Szechuen government, to transport Szechuen invaders into Hupeh to the disadvantage of Wu Pei-fu.

General dissatisfaction is being expressed by important foreigners at Hankow and Ichang against the toleration of such use of foreign flags by the Chinese doing contraband business and by those Chinese who attempt to further their own political interests in Chinese squabbles. It is generally feared that this misuse of flags may easily lead to distrust and suspicion in regard to all foreigners on the part of Chinese as well as to other anti-foreign ideas.

FLAG OVER CHINESE HONGS

Besides Chinese steamers many Chinese houses at Ichang overhang their frontages with the French tricolor, which shows the wide extent of the abuse of the French flag. There is another ulterior purpose on the part of the Chinese who get their business houses French flagged by associating with French undesirables, according to information received at Hankow.

These people well know that after the fighting foreign subjects and other interests affiliated with them would have the right to lay their claims of damages before the Chinese government. So when they have their interests French flagged, these Chinese would apply for compensation for the damages done to French properties, and would thereby receive indemnities several times over their real losses and the fee charged for the right of flying the French flag.

PROTESTS ARE FILED

Protests have been filed with the Foreign Office at Peking by the Hankow Commissioner of Foreign Affairs, who urged the adoption of adequate measures by the Chinese Government, to prevent the misuse of the foreign flag of any nationality by purely Chinese interests.

How U. S. Taxes Are Spent For Populace

(U. S. Navy Radio Through Reuter)

Desmoines, Oct. 29.—The Rev. Charles Medbury, addressing the Inter-State Conference in support of disarmament today, said:—"Out of every dollar which American citizens pay to the Government 66.2 cents is spent on paying for past wars, 29.4 in preparing for future wars and 4.8 cents in paying for the Civil Departments of the Government."

Third Parliament Soon Will Convene

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, Oct. 27.—That the Premier has decided that the new Parliament should be convened is a report received from reliable Chinese sources. This afternoon at 3 o'clock he is supposed to meet the members of this Parliament, which is the third of the Republic, in the Waichiaopu Building. At this meeting he intends to sound out the representatives as to their opinions regarding the convocation of the Parliament.
